Past Broken is Fixable

If you've been disappointed in the past with missed opportunities or heartache in your life, it may seem easier to just accept being stuck with old emotions or feel that nothing can be changed.

Because of my work with powerful vibrational energies, I feel optimistic that any situation can be improved, sometimes dramatically, when old blocked energies are dissolved, and new higher levels of vibrational energies are experienced.

These higher vibrational frequencies help clear and change the energies in and around you so that you can reach new levels of joy and the fullness of who you are and what you've come to do. At these higher levels, it's much easier to release the energy of disappointments and events from the past and let them dissolve and fade as you experience these new and higher joyful levels.

It may be time to stop allowing past hurts and old disappointments to define or limit you. With the help of vibrational energy work, you can experience the happiness and aliveness that you deserve. Past broken is fixable when the old is released so that it allows you to start being all that you came to be.

In Light, Nancy Robinson

I facilitate a vibrational energy process called Elicor Awakenings which includes energy clearing, energetic coaching, and crystal skull gridding (on request). These energies clear on the mental, physical, spiritual, and emotional levels enabling clients to make changes and bring forward new possibilities.
